"UAE's Remote Work Visa: Abu Dhabi and Dubai Emerge as Prime Hotspots for Digital Wanderers"

Abu Dhabi and Dubai are amongst the preferred destinations for individuals seeking to work from afar during the colder months. Abu Dhabi clinched the top spot for remote workers, boasting an average of 10.2 hours of sunlight from October to February, while Dubai secured the fourth position.

This insight was shared by Business Name Generator in their latest research note. The analysis delved into 50 globally renowned cities, considering factors such as internet connectivity speed, nomadic living expenses per month, average rent prices, life quality indicators, winter sunlight duration, winter temperatures, and typical flight durations from London.

These remote workers, often termed 'digital nomads', have the flexibility to operate from a location they prefer. As the chill sets in, they often migrate to sunnier locales to elude the frosty climate.

With the mercury hovering around 22.6°C during winters, the UAE emerges as an enticing destination for such professionals.

In 2021, the UAE administration introduced a visa tailored for remote work, allowing professionals to reside in the UAE while being employed by firms situated overseas. Aspiring candidates for this year-long visa need to furnish evidence of their employment with a foreign entity and demonstrate a monthly earning of at least $3,500 (Dh12,845) or its equivalent.

A direct flight from London can get you to the UAE capital in just under eight hours. The study highlighted the perks of Abu Dhabi's remote work visa, emphasizing its stunning beaches, balmy climate, and commendable quality of life.

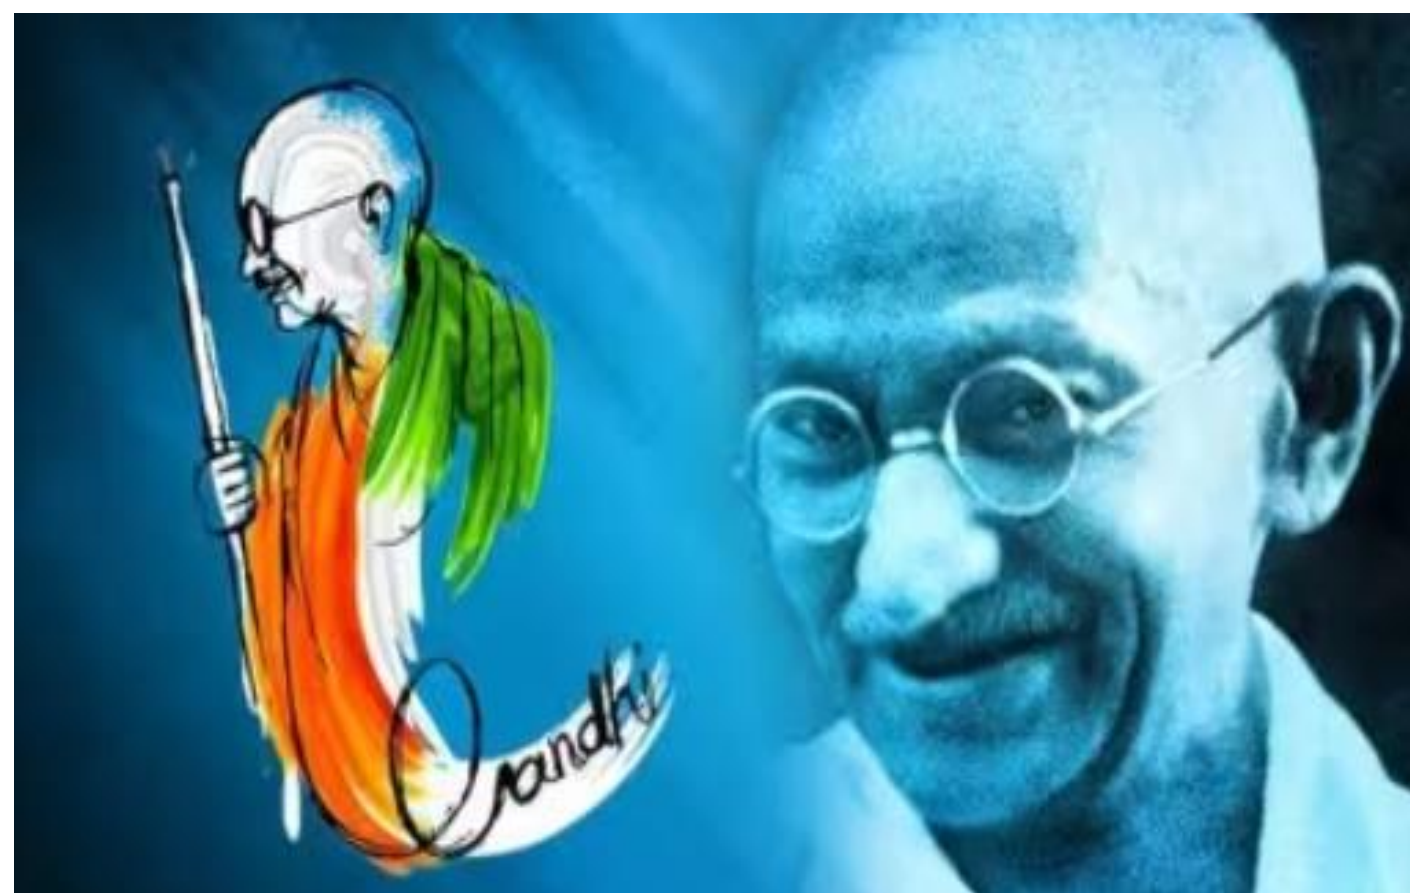

For those eyeing Dubai, the study suggests packing summer-friendly attire, anticipating one of the warmest winter climates. With an average sunlight duration of 8.6 hours during winter days, one shouldn't forget ample sun protection either.

Moreover, the city stands out for its impeccable safety standards, pristine avenues, and state-of-the-art infrastructure.

Other metropolises joining the top 10 list include Singapore, Orlando, Houston, Buenos Aires, Melbourne, and Lisbon.

On the pricier side for digital nomads, cities like New York, Zurich, Boston, Seattle, and London topped the list.

Gandhi Jayanti: Celebrating the Legacy of the Mahatma

Every year, on the 2nd of October, India and the global community collectively remember and honor one of the most profound figures in world history, Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi. Widely known as Mahatma Gandhi or Bapu (Father), his philosophies continue to resonate, and his principles serve as a beacon for numerous movements worldwide.

A Brief Glimpse into Gandhi's Life

Born in Porbandar, Gujarat, in 1869, Gandhi's evolution from a timid lawyer in South Africa to India's spiritual and political leader is a testament to the transformative power of conviction and perseverance. His experiences with racial injustice in South Africa laid the foundation for his unique brand of non-violent resistance.

The Pillars of Gandhi's Philosophy: Truth and Non-violence

Gandhi's advocacy for 'Ahimsa' (non-violence) and 'Satyagraha' (truth-force) wasn't just a strategy for political struggle but a holistic way of life. In a world plagued by conflicts, his unwavering commitment to peace and justice showcased an alternative – that of non-violent resistance.

Gandhi Jayanti in Modern India

Gandhi Jayanti is not merely a date marked on the calendar. It's a day of introspection, gratitude, and a renewal of commitment to the Gandhian values of simplicity, truth, and fraternity. Schools and colleges across the nation organize activities, and major landmarks are adorned with lights and portraits of the Mahatma. The President, Prime Minister, and other significant figures gather at Raj Ghat, Gandhi's memorial in New Delhi, to offer floral tributes. In recognition of his monumental contribution to global peace and harmony, the United Nations declared Gandhi Jayanti as the International Day of Non-Violence in 2007. Today, nations across the world organize events promoting non-violence, peace, and sustainable development in homage to Gandhi's ideals.

"Dubai Witnesses More Than 50% Surge in Golden Visas During the First Half of 2023"

In the first half of this year, Dubai witnessed a 52% surge in Golden Visas granted compared to the same timeframe in the previous year, as reported by the General Directorate of Residency and Foreigners Affairs (GDRFA) – Dubai. The Golden Visa, initiated in 2019, provides a long-term residency permit for expatriates, enabling them to reside, work, or pursue education in the UAE for a span of up to 10 years. Those qualified for this long-term stay encompass investors, innovators, distinguished scholars and experts, top-performing students, and frontline heroes, among others. By November 2022, over 150,000 golden visas had been allocated to qualifying residents, investors, and professionals in Dubai.

This update was shared by the GDRFA while discussing the forthcoming International Conference on Policymaking: The Future of Ports in a recent press briefing.

Further insights from the GDRFA highlight that there was a 63% growth in residency visa allocations and a 21% rise in tourist visa issuances during the January-June phase. This increase is attributed to expatriates looking for promising opportunities and tourists eager to discover the UAE, with many being drawn to Dubai.

Post-pandemic, Dubai's appeal has augmented substantially, with the emirate becoming a magnet for foreign investors and specialists. Factors contributing to this influx include the adept management of the pandemic crisis and the successful hosting of Expo 2020.

Since the onset of 2023, Dubai has seen a population growth of approximately 72,700, elevating the total count from 3.550 million at the start of the year to 3.623 million.

"Dubai: The Banker Who Left a Seven-Figure Income to Pursue Farming"

In his childhood, Satyajit Hange was always cautioned by his parents against choosing farming as a profession. Later in life, even as he secured a lucrative banking position with a seven-figure salary, a sense of unfulfillment lingered.

Compelled by this discontent, Satyajit, along with his brother Ajinkya, decided to revert to their roots, the farmlands they grew up on. Now, they mentor over 2,000 Indian farmers, promoting eco-friendly and sustainable agriculture, gaining endorsements from prominent Indian celebrities in the process.

Satyajit, now an advocate for organic farming, is in Dubai introducing products cultivated by these farmers, spanning across 16 Indian states. "Our range, from organic ghee to natural sweeteners, enjoys a significant clientele in both the UAE and US," Satyajit informed Khaleej Times.

But the journey wasn't without challenges. While their parents discouraged them, fearing societal disregard and financial instability linked with farming, the brothers saw it differently. Leaving their white-collar jobs behind, they delved into farming driven by passion. "The endeavor wasn't about brand-building, but deriving happiness," Satyajit reflected.

The transformative journey rejuvenated him. "My physical health improved, mentally I found peace, intellectually I was constantly learning, and spiritually, I felt more connected," he described.

The brothers' approach towards organic farming, which withstood both droughts and floods, became a beacon for other struggling farmers. In one case, Satyajit recounted assisting a farmer by introducing him to 'Nolen Gur' (date palm jaggery), a technique unfamiliar to him. The result? A monumental growth in the farmer's earnings, from a mere Rs250,000 (about Dh12,500) to a whopping Rs4.5 million (roughly Dh225,000) from the same piece of land.
