Davos Focuses on Key Developments from COP28 Historic Achievements

Leaders from the public, business, and philanthropic sectors came together for a special session at the World Economic Forum (WEF) annual meeting in Davos. The focus was on emphasizing the role that philanthropic, family office capital, and development finance can play in transforming market practices to accelerate the shift towards a net-zero, nature-positive economy.

Prominent figures such as Secretary John F. Kerry, US Special Presidential Envoy for Climate, Ray Dalio, Founder of Bridgewater Associates, Mafalda Duarte, Executive Director of Green Climate Fund, Desmond Kuek, CEO of Temasek Trust, Mahktar Diop, Managing Director of International Finance Corporation (IFC), and Badr Jafar, COP28 Special Representative for Business & Philanthropy and CEO of Crescent Enterprises participated in the event.

Secretary John F. Kerry opened the session by discussing the challenges and opportunities in meeting climate goals, emphasizing the role of private capital as market drivers for innovation and sustainable solutions. He noted that, following the outcomes of COP28, there is increased readiness to address climate issues.

The plenary discussion, moderated by David Gelles of The New York Times, underscored the historic outcomes of COP28 UAE and the imperative for all stakeholders to collaborate in achieving the UAE Consensus. Achieving the goal of limiting warming to 1.5°C and transitioning to a climate and nature-positive future by 2050 necessitates systemic shifts in various sectors. Business and philanthropic capital were recognized for their unique roles in accelerating climate action.

Badr Jafar, who chaired the inaugural COP28 Business & Philanthropy Climate Forum, highlighted the private sector's dynamic role in accelerating progress towards net zero. The forum brought together over 1,300 business and philanthropy leaders, resulting in commitments of $7 billion to climate and nature initiatives.

To reach net zero, reverse nature loss, and restore biodiversity by 2050, estimated investments of over $3 trillion annually are required. The session emphasized the need for partnerships, increased ambition, and accelerated learning across sectors to bridge this financial gap.

Badr Jafar referred to key success factors from COP28 that future COP presidencies can adopt, emphasizing inclusivity, trust-building, and multilateralism that works for all regions and peoples. The session also saw the launch of new initiatives under the World Economic Forum's Giving to Amplify Earth Action (GAEA) to facilitate the transition of corporate business models into sustainable practices through public-private-philanthropy interventions. The discussion was part of WEF's climate multi-sector collaborative aimed at unlocking private finance and public funds for regenerating earth systems across various domains.

Saudi Finance Minister Reiterates Absence of Intent to Introduce Personal Income Tax

The Finance Minister of Saudi Arabia has firmly stated that there are no plans to implement individual income tax in the country.

In an interview held at the 2024 World Economic Forum in Davos, Mohammed Al Jadaan emphasized the government's dedication to its existing financial frameworks. Al Jadaan highlighted the nation's reliance on diverse revenue streams, including value-added tax (VAT), corporate and foreign investor income taxes, and zakat on the local population. He confirmed that there are no intentions to modify these established mechanisms, and instead, the government is focused on streamlining economic processes to create a more business-friendly environment.

The minister underscored Saudi Arabia's commitment to diversifying into various sectors such as tourism, technology, and logistics. The country is actively involved in logistical initiatives, such as railway and airport projects, to enhance connectivity. Additionally, Saudi Arabia is expanding water treatment facilities to ensure continuous services for its citizens and residents. The nation is also initiating substantial financing for various renewable energy projects.

To address the deficit, Saudi Arabia has issued bonds amounting to $12 billion, which will be allocated to finance the current deficit, standing at approximately two percent of the gross domestic product (GDP) for the year. The government is planning to accelerate spending on major projects. Al Jadaan expressed optimism about the country's economic trajectory, pointing to positive signs of progress.

Dubai's RTA Initiatives Result in Savings of Dh262 Billion, According to Mattar Al Tayer

Dubai's Roads and Transport Authority (RTA) has reported significant savings of Dh262 billion from various infrastructure projects initiated since 2006, according to Mattar Al Tayer, Director General and Chairman of the Board of Executive Directors of the RTA.

The substantial savings primarily stem from reduced time and fuel consumption resulting from alleviated traffic congestion. Remarkably, despite a government allocation of Dh140 billion for roads and transport system development during this period, the return on investment has been exceptional.

Al Tayer disclosed these figures during his keynote address, titled 'Leading Mega Projects and Strategic Transformations,' at the ninth edition of the Dubai International Projects Management Forum (DIPMF).

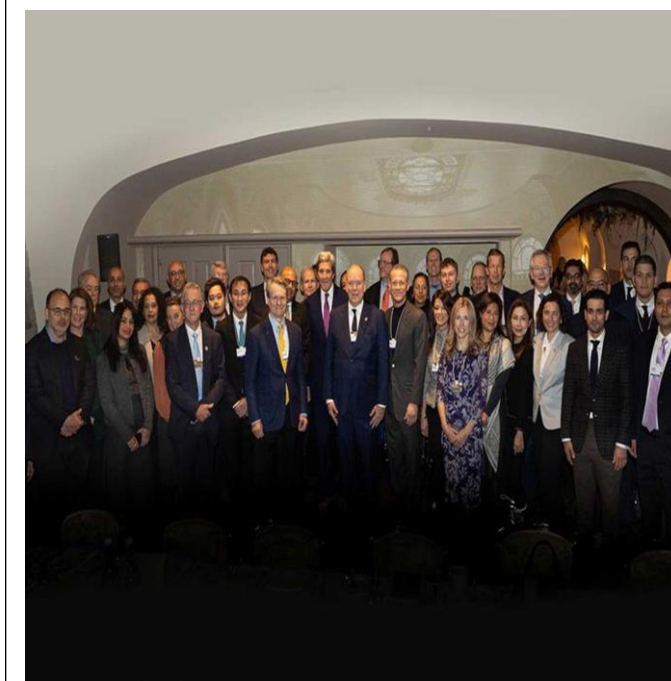

The implementation of extensive public transport projects has seen a tremendous increase in ridership, surging from 95 million in 2006 to nearly half a billion in 2022. This growth has significantly elevated the share of trips made by public transport, rising from 6% to 21.6%. In 2022, RTA reported revenues amounting to Dh8.9 billion.

Investments in transport infrastructure have not only facilitated increased safety for commuters but also led to a dramatic 90% reduction in road accident fatalities, decreasing from 21.9 per 100,000 population in 2006 to just 1.9 in 2022, as highlighted by Al Tayer in his address.

The RTA has achieved notable success in delivering mega projects on schedule, including the Red and Green lines of the Dubai Metro, the Dubai Tram, Route 2020 of the Dubai Metro, and the Dubai Water Canal.

Al Tayer emphasized the significant role of infrastructure investment in driving economic growth globally, citing an anticipated Benefit-Cost Ratio (BCR) of Dh8.8 for some road projects by 2030. He also highlighted the success of the Dubai Metro, reaching a break-even point between benefits and costs in 2016 and projected to yield a return of Dh4.3 for every dirham spent by 2030. Furthermore, the RTA's projects and programs have contributed to substantial reductions in carbon emissions, resulting in savings nearing half a billion dirhams from 2014 to 2023.

Leaders in Business and Philanthropy Undertake Ambitious Initiatives for Climate and Nature Action

Global leaders in business, philanthropy, and policy convened at the World Economic Forum (WEF) in Davos for a session titled 'COP28-COP30 – A Drumbeat for Business & Philanthropy.' Hosted by Badr Jafar and Brian Moynihan, the discussion aimed to enhance private sector engagement in the climate action agenda, building on the success of the Business and Philanthropy Climate Forum at COP28. With over 50 attendees, including Secretary John F. Kerry and Prince Albert II of Monaco, the focus was on creating a more integrated collaboration among stakeholders to achieve the goals outlined in the historic UAE Consensus. Emphasizing an inclusive approach, Jafar highlighted the unique role of the private sector in translating climate commitments into tangible action, addressing gaps in implementation. Moynihan underscored the private sector's vital role in collaboration with government and philanthropy for progress toward a sustainable future. The session sought to capitalize on COP28 momentum, aiming for substantial progress and increased investments in industry transitions at COP29 and COP30 during the WEF's annual meeting, known for fostering global discussions and public-private cooperation.

UAE Bucks Global Trend, Experiences 28% Surge in Foreign Direct Investments

The United Arab Emirates (UAE) has positioned itself as a leading hub for foreign direct investment (FDI), as outlined in a recent report from the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development.

Despite a global decline of 18 percent in FDI inflows in 2023, the UAE has experienced a remarkable 28 percent increase in new foreign investment projects. This places the UAE in the second position worldwide, following only the United States.

His Highness Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al Maktoum, Vice President, Prime Minister of the UAE, and Ruler of Dubai, shared this significant accomplishment on Twitter. He noted, "In the latest UNCTAD report on global economies, FDI inflows dipped by 18 percent in 2023. Yet, the UAE stood out, securing the second-highest surge in foreign investment projects at 28 percent, following the US. This underscores our enduring appeal for investments, competitive edge, and talent attraction. As we step into the new year, we do so with optimism and confidence. A heartfelt thank you to all who have invested in and continue to believe in the UAE economy. Looking ahead, we anticipate an even brighter future, Insha'Allah."

Contributing to the UAE's economic success, Sheikh Hamdan bin Mohammed bin Rashid Al Maktoum, Crown Prince of Dubai and Chairman of The Executive Council of Dubai, emphasized the ongoing economic growth of Dubai. The city's GDP grew by 3.3 percent in the first nine months of 2023, indicating consistent progress towards the objectives outlined in the Dubai Economy Agenda D33. This ambitious agenda, launched by Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid, aims to position Dubai among the top three urban economies globally within the next decade. "Driven by the strategic vision of its leadership, Dubai has set an example for economic strength, resilience, and innovation. With the dedicated efforts of our government teams and international business partners, we look forward to achieving many more milestones in 2024," Sheikh Hamdan tweeted.

Late Penalty Drama Secures Sheffield United's Draw Against West Ham.

Late McBurnie Penalty Secures Dramatic 2-2 Draw for Sheffield United Against West Ham

In a chaotic climax at Bramall Lane on Sunday, Oli McBurnie's 12th-minute stoppage-time penalty rescued Sheffield United, securing a 2-2 draw against West Ham. The match featured late drama, including red cards for both teams in injury time, as West Ham missed an opportunity to close in on the top four.

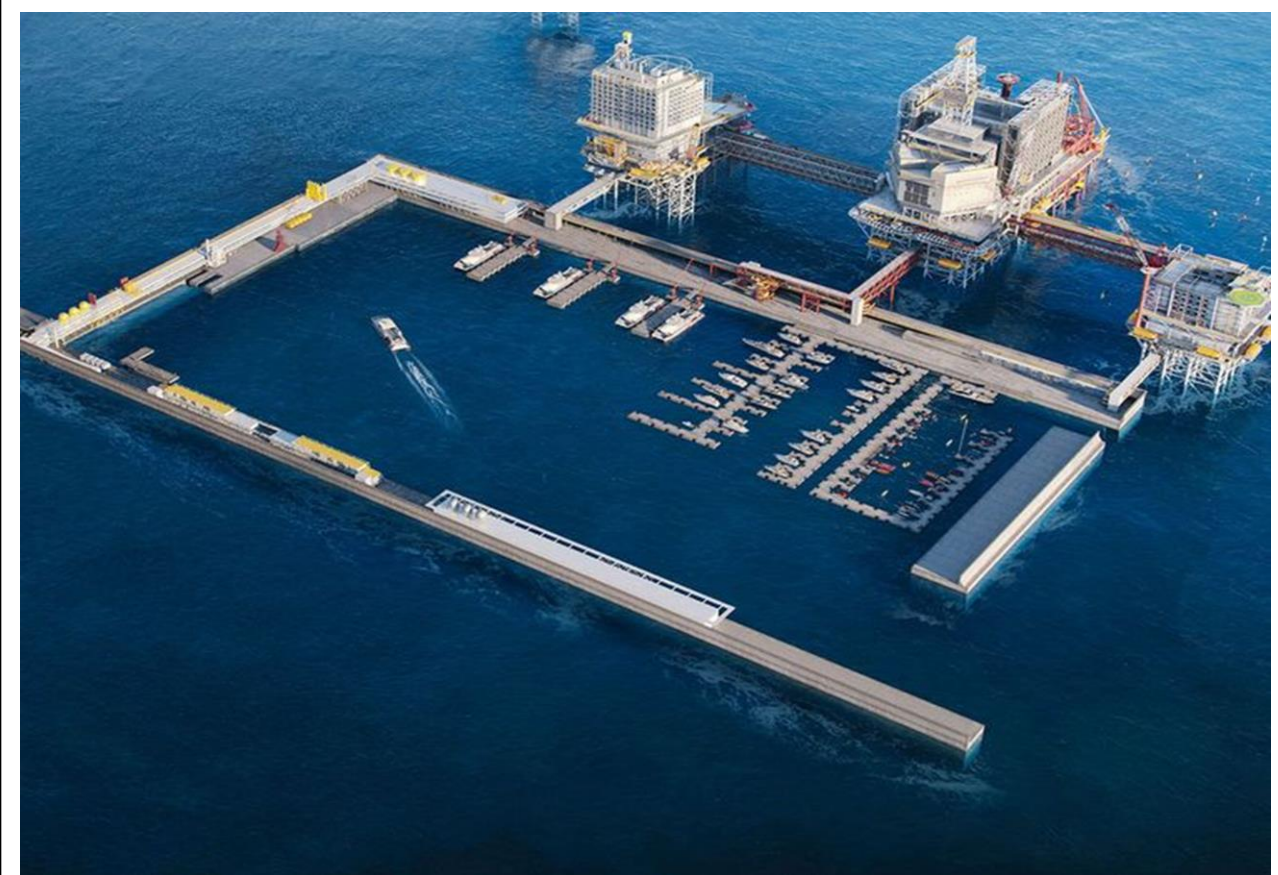

Twice, David Moyes' side took the lead with goals from Maxwell Cornet and James Ward-Prowse's penalty. However, Ben Brereton Diaz, making his Premier League debut for the Blades, and McBurnie's late spot-kick leveled the score, bringing Sheffield United within seven points of safety.

West Ham, missing key players due to injuries, suspensions, and international commitments, struggled to control the game in challenging weather conditions. Cornet opened the scoring with his first goal for the club, while Diaz quickly made an impact with a goal on his return to English football.

Despite Diaz missing a chance to turn the game around in the second half, Sheffield United earned a lifeline when a late penalty was conceded by Gustavo Hamer. Ward-Prowse calmly converted the spot-kick, and the drama continued with Rhian Brewster receiving a red card for a wild challenge. However, VAR intervention led to a booking for Vladimir Coufal, and he was later sent off for a second yellow card.

In the ensuing chaos, McBurnie's penalty was successfully converted, but controversy arose as West Ham's appeals for another penalty were denied. The match ended in a 2-2 draw, leaving West Ham frustrated but maintaining a three-point lead over Manchester United in sixth place.

PIF Unveils Adventure Tourism Hub in Saudi Arabia Inspired by Offshore Oil Rig Theme

Saudi Arabia's Public Investment Fund (PIF) has revealed the blueprint for 'The Rig,' an extreme adventure tourism destination themed after an offshore oil platform. Spanning an expansive 300,000 square meters and situated 40km from the coastline near Al Juraid Island and Berri Oil Field in the Arabian Gulf, this venture combines hospitality and adventure experiences.

The complex will host three hotels with a total of 800 rooms and 11 restaurants, alongside facilities for extreme sports, an adventure park, a marina, and helipads. The Oil Park Development Company (OPDC) will oversee the development of The Rig, led by CEO Raed N. Bakhriji, a seasoned professional with over two decades of experience in the oil and gas industry. The project aims to attract more than 900,000 visitors annually by 2023, aligning with PIF's strategy and Saudi Arabia's Vision 2030 goals of fostering tourism growth, creating employment opportunities, and diversifying the economy.

The Rig's offerings extend to various water activities, including a diving center, an amusement park, a splash park, an e-sports center, an immersive theater, and a multi-purpose arena.

Saudi Arabia is witnessing the emergence of multiple giga-projects, enhancing Riyadh's attractions. Notably, Neom features developments like the Norlana lifestyle resort and Utamo, an avant-garde arts and entertainment destination.

Initial Property Deliveries Commence in Sharjah's 'Wooded' Masaar Amidst Sustained Growth in Off-Plan Demand

Situated in the Suyoh district, Masaar, a pioneering off-plan development in the UAE post-Covid disruptions, is witnessing its initial residents move into the upscale residential enclave known for its wooded surroundings. The 'Sendian' cluster within Masaar, comprising 430 homes, is currently in the handover phase.

Anticipated to stimulate increased activity in the secondary market for Masaar properties, this comes as previous releases in the development consistently witnessed swift sellouts. Presently, four-bedroom units in Masaar are commanding asking prices starting from Dh2.7 million, with a premium of Dh9.25 million for a six-bedroom unit. Real estate experts predict a robust buildup in Sharjah's secondary property market, particularly as more homes transition to a 'ready' status, highlighting the marginal price differences between off-plan launches and ready-to-move homes as a significant attraction for buyers exploring the secondary market route.

Expected to be fully completed by the end of 2026, Masaar's masterplan encompasses 3,000 villas and townhouses sprawled across a 19 million square foot area, organized into six gated districts. A walkable 'green spine' connecting 50,000 trees will be a distinctive feature. Construction of 986 homes in the second and third phases is underway and slated for completion by the year-end, with contracts for the remaining three phases expected to be awarded within the year.

Prince Khaled bin Alwaleed bin Talal, Vice-Chairman of Arada, expressed pride in Masaar's achievement, stating, "We promised Masaar would set a new standard of living for both Sharjah and the UAE, and we are immensely proud to be able to deliver on that, welcoming the first homeowners."

Meanwhile, in the Khorfakkan area, Shurooq has initiated sales for the 'Ajwan' project, featuring two apartment buildings with prices starting at Dh1.8 million for two-bedroom units, and a scheduled completion in Q4-2026. Shurooq's plans for 2024 include the launch of more off-plan apartment projects, possibly with units starting around the Dh1 million mark.

Another notable development in Sharjah, the Sustainable City, is set to witness an increase in its resident population with the ongoing fourth phase. This Shurooq joint venture with Diamond Developers emphasizes sustainability and offers reduced utility bills of up to 50 percent. The completion of phase 4 is expected in Q2 2025, featuring vertical farms producing 90,000 kilograms of chemical-free greens and 80 electric vehicle charging stations.

Ahmed Obaid Al Qaseer, CEO of Shurooq, emphasized the organization's commitment to transforming Sharjah into a sustainable and livable city, aligning with the growing market demand for waterfront options and Sharjah's vision for sustainable growth and investor-friendly policies.
