Fly Dubai's Trio of Boeing 737 MAX 9 Aircraft Remain Unaffected by FAA Grounding in the United States

Flydubai Affirms Unaffected Status of Boeing 737 MAX 9 Fleet Amid FAA Grounding. On Sunday, Dubai-based carrier flydubai reassured the public that its three Boeing 737 MAX 9 planes remain unaffected by the temporary grounding imposed by US regulators on 171 Boeing 737 MAX 9 jetliners for safety inspections.

In response to the Emergency Airworthiness Directive (EAD) issued by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) on January 6, 2024, a spokesperson for flydubai stated, "We can confirm that the three Boeing 737 MAX 9 aircraft in our fleet are not affected." The spokesperson explained that flydubai operates Boeing 737 MAX 9 aircraft with a deactivated mid-aft exit door configuration, a detail not referenced in the directive.

The FAA's decision to temporarily ground 171 Boeing 737 MAX 9 jetliners followed a cabin panel blowout incident that forced an Alaska Airlines jet to make an emergency landing. The affected plane had been in service for eight weeks, according to Reuters.

Flydubai currently operates a fleet that includes 29 Boeing 737-800 aircraft, three Boeing 737 MAX 9 aircraft, and 13 Boeing 737 MAX aircraft added to its fleet last year. The carrier diversified its fleet further by placing an order for 30 Boeing 787-9s at the Dubai Airshow in the previous year, marking its first wide-body order.

Globally, there are approximately 215 Boeing MAX 9 airplanes in service, with major operators such as United Airlines (79 aircraft) and Alaska Airlines (65 aircraft) representing around 70 percent of the global fleet. Other international carriers, including Copa Airlines in Panama, Aeromexico, Iceland Air, and Turkish Airlines, also rely on the Boeing 737 MAX 9.

While flydubai's fleet remains unaffected, Turkish Airlines has grounded five of its Boeing 737 MAX 9 jets for inspections in response to the incident in the US.

The Boeing 737 MAX series has faced challenges in the past, with two MAX 8 crashes in 2018 and 2019 leading to a global grounding of all MAX aircraft for nearly two years. Boeing expressed support for the FAA's decision, stating, "Safety is our top priority," and pledged full cooperation with the investigation into the recent event by the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB). The company emphasized its commitment to addressing safety concerns promptly.

Vietnam's Wealthiest Entrepreneur-Led Electric Vehicle Manufacturer, VinFast, Plans $2 Billion Investment in India

VinFast Auto Ltd., the Vietnamese electric-vehicle manufacturer led by Vietnam's wealthiest individual, Pham Nhat Vuong, has inked an agreement with an Indian state to invest up to $2 billion, marking its foray into the world's third-largest automobile market.

According to a company statement, the agreement lays the groundwork for VinFast to establish an integrated electric-vehicle facility in the southern state of Tamil Nadu. Although specific details about the initial investment of $500 million were not disclosed, the company expressed its commitment to this substantial venture.

In a recent announcement, VinFast appointed Pham Nhat Vuong, the founder and chairman of the parent company Vingroup Joint Stock Company, as the new Chief Executive Officer (CEO). The current CEO, Le Thi Thu Thuy, will transition to the role of Head of the Board of Directors. Additionally, Nguyen Thi Lan Anh has been named as the new Chief Financial Officer, succeeding David Mansfield.

As Vietnam's wealthiest individual, Pham Nhat Vuong will now directly oversee VinFast's operations, including global production, sales, and marketing. The company, which went public in the United States in August through a merger with blank-check company Black Spade Acquisition Co., reported a widened loss in the third quarter.

VinFast's ambitious plans for India include the commencement of construction on the facility later this year, with an anticipated annual capacity of up to 150,000 units. This move aligns with the company's broader strategy of aggressively expanding into Southeast Asian markets. VinFast is also actively pursuing manufacturing projects in North Carolina with a $2 billion investment and planning a factory in Indonesia.

The company's global expansion aspirations were highlighted by Le Thi Thu Thuy in October when she stated that VinFast aims to raise significant capital to fuel its growth trajectory. The automaker, having commenced sales of electric vehicles (EVs) in the United States in early 2023, set its sights on European deliveries in the fourth quarter of the previous year.

Bitcoin Temporarily Falls Below $41,000, Reversing Direction

Bitcoin's sharp decline on Wednesday resulted in the cryptocurrency wiping out almost all its gains for the year, reversing a prolonged upward trend that had outpaced a global downturn in traditional assets.

The world's largest token experienced a drop of up to 9.2%, briefly falling below $41,000 shortly after 7 a.m. in New York. This came a day after reaching a 21-month high by surpassing the $45,000 mark. The volatility extended to crypto-related stocks, with shares in the US crypto exchange Coinbase Global Inc. witnessing a 6.9% decline.

Fadi Aboualfa, head of research at crypto custodian Copper Technologies Ltd., commented on the increased volatility, stating, "We will likely see some increased volatility in the short term as markets start to measure risk in all asset classes, as we enter a year that has many question marks." He noted that despite a similar market dip at the start of December, there was subsequent recovery.

According to data from Coinglass, more than $500 million in positions across all major cryptocurrencies on exchanges were liquidated on Wednesday, marking the highest amount since December 11.

Bitcoin had been on a significant upward trend, particularly in anticipation of a January 10 deadline when the US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) might approve the first exchange-traded fund (ETF) directly tied to the cryptocurrency's spot price. The value of Bitcoin surged almost 160% in 2023, aligning with the broader rally in digital assets.

However, Matrixport analyst Markus Thielen expressed skepticism, expecting the SEC to reject all Bitcoin ETF proposals this month. He cited the recent applications falling short of meeting necessary requirements for SEC approval. Despite this, several issuers named authorized participants for potential Bitcoin-linked products in recent days, indicating potential approval on the horizon.

The decline in Bitcoin also affected other assets, with Ether dropping as much as 11% on Wednesday, and Solana's SOL experiencing a more substantial tumble of over 28%.

AD Ports Group and Red Sea Port Authority Ink 15-Year Deal to Enhance Cruise Tourism in Egypt

CAIRO: AD Ports Group has officially signed a 15-year concession agreement with the Red Sea Port Authority (RSPA) to oversee the operation and management of three cruise terminals located at Safaga, Hurghada, and Sharm El Sheikh ports. As part of the agreement, the Sharm El Sheikh terminal is set to undergo renovations, with the primary goal of enhancing the overall cruise tourism experience in Egypt. The formalized concession agreement is anticipated to be finalized in the first quarter of 2024, pending regulatory approvals. The signing ceremony took place at the Egyptian Ministry of Transportation in New Capital City - Cairo, with the presence of Lieutenant-General Eng. Kamel El Wazir, Egypt's Minister of Transport, Major General Mohamed Abdel Rahim, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Red Sea Ports Authority, and Ahmed Al Mutawa, Regional CEO of AD Ports Group. Under this collaborative effort, AD Ports Group commits to investing $3 million over the next 15 years in the management and operation of the three cruise terminals. The investment aims to introduce new services, enhance access for cruise operators, and introduce fresh itineraries through the Group's cruise terminal network in the Red Sea. This strategic partnership is expected to fortify AD Ports Group's cruise business in the Red Sea region, facilitating increased volumes of cruise passengers and delivering elevated passenger and cruise experiences. Ahmed Al Mutawa, Regional CEO of AD Ports Group, expressed the significance of the agreement, stating, "This agreement is a testament to our commitment to fostering tourism in the Red Sea region and strengthening the existing ties between the United Arab Emirates and Egypt. With an investment of $3 million, AD Ports Group is poised to boost cruise tourism in the Red Sea, bringing world-class services and facilities to these ports while supporting economic growth for Egypt." This collaboration follows the recent signing of a definitive concession agreement between AD Ports Group and RSPA for the development and operation of a multi-purpose terminal at Safaga Sea Port. The investment for this project is estimated to be $200 million over three years, with a focus on establishing a cutting-edge facility in the strategically located Red Sea, serving the Upper Egypt region as the first internationally operated port. As part of its broader cruise expansion strategy, AD Ports Group also inaugurated the Aqaba Cruise Terminal, a pioneering facility in Jordan, with the aim of enhancing the global cruise experience for passengers.
